diches form the north of Italy Polenta, Risotto and Trofie. At the first day he just showed how he make it we didn't get to make pasta but it was fun and instructive to see that the Italian kitchen only use mostly five ingredients to their dishes to make something so tasteful you can sometimes find it hard to believe that their only few ingredients to make something so good it's so different form Denmark where we like to use seven to eight things or more so it was fun to learn. When the lesson where done we get to eat some of the things he just made we then got on a bus to go back to hotel most of ours when shopping to make dinner at home today was a relaxing day some played card and others just relaxed

Day 4

A beautiful city in the mountains when we arrived to the city there wasn't that many people but as time went on more and more people showed up for the race at the evening there was a big crowed of people it was something I never had tried before it was some of the most exciting I have tried when the race was done we hop on bus and went back to Perugia most of us went out and eat and after that we went out to get something to drink it was a fun day we get to learn each other better after we went back to bed to a new exciting days.

Day 5 & 6

Day 5 we made more pasta and learn some dishes from the middle of Italy some of us were still a little tired from yesterday so the day at the kitchen was a slow but fun day we get to eat some of the things we made some of the things was lasagna it tasted so good or as he said “MAMA MIA” when we got back to the city there was a big car show in the city with new cars and old cars I think the show was almost 2 hours with different cars coming by I also found a little street that had a lot of street art it was beautiful and I think it is a little art club who made the art it was something I didn't expect to see in an old city. At night we would try to find a new place to eat so we walked around the city and found a beautiful place with good food to a good price after that we went to bed.

Day 6

Friday, we learn different types of dishes from the south we made new kind of pasta and 4 new dishes with pasta also carbonara we learn that Italians made it with eggs no cream or milk only eggs after that we talk about how the week was going as this was the last day of our pasta week it was fun and a lot of new things I learned we took a picture with him as this was one of his biggest classes he had.

We got something to eat and took the bus back to city today some of us took a night out with food and drinks at night we met our teacher again and took a picture with him

Day 7 & 8

Day 7 and 8: today we tried to make the dough to the pizza learn how to mix the dough into a pizza when then later got to bake them so we learnt to make a pizza form the start to end product we then sat down to eat what we made and got on a bus to Perugia at home most of us went shopping to dinner and some of the others went out to eat at night some went out to city to get some think to drink others stayed home and played some card

Day 9 & 10

Day 9 and 10

The focus has been on how to make your dough into a whole traditional Italian pizza. see how very few ingredients turn into so tasty and so loved a dish like pizza, but as with all the other things we have tried hard on is the key in the little things. Especially with the design of the dough, it is small precise movements that give the pizza we all know and love. And then some of us have to realize that we are a little too happy with the tomato sauce, which our teacher Matteo told us.

Day 11 & 12 & 13

The last three days I got sick so most of my time I spend in bed, but I was still at school. We continued to learn about the week's theme: Pizza. We have today made an alternative form of pizza known as Pizza Alla "Pala". Like yesterday, today we helped to make the dough. Right from mixing the ingredients together to shaping and making the pizzas (which we eventually got to eat for lunch). What is unique about this type of pizza is especially its untraditional form. All in all, it was a good day

Thursday. Today we have made Torta al testo reminiscent of a pita bread with pizzas and pizza stuff. There are now only 2 days left in Perugia. Otherwise the day has been relaxing for most people.

Friday. Was the last day we made Foccacina and got our diploma and after that home to pack our suitcases most of us went out to eat one last time after that went home to have fun just relaxing a the last day
